

DEATH OF OLDEST MERCHANT

CAPT. WM. J. MARTIN WITHIN MONTH OF 80TH BIRTHDAY.

Long Life of Usefulness—A County Treasurer—Leading Democrat—Other Deaths.

Capt. Wm. J. Martin, the oldest merchant in this place, in point of time of occupying one place continuously, passed peacefully away on Sunday morning at 1.15. Less than a week before he was in his store at corner of Baltimore and High streets, where he has been in the grocery business for fifty years, attending to customers. He had been in frail health for several years but would not give up. Upon persuasion of his relatives he had decided to give up his store about a week ago and had arranged for an auction of the stock on last Friday and Saturday. His condition became so serious that the sale on latter date could not be held. On Tuesday appeared the first symptoms of the approach of death, which he seemed to understand, for when his daughter asked him what was the matter he replied, "I'm getting ready for my last account." Paralysis of some form overtook him and the only return of consciousness was on Friday morning.

Capt. Wm. J. Martin was born in New Oxford on Sept. 15, 1828, and was one month short of being four score years old at his death. In 1858 he began business at the present location of store in partnership with John Norbeck under the firm name of Norbeck & Martin. In 1864 Capt. Martin bought the interest of Norbeck, and during the prime of his life it was one of the leading grocery stores of the place. He was Capt. of the Independent Blues, a local militia company at the breaking out of the Civil War, and under his drilling it became known as one of the best drilled companies in this section of the country. Col. C. H. Buehler and Capt. Wm. J. Martin recruited Co. F, of the 87th Pennsylvania in 1861, a number of the members of the Independent Blues being mustered in. C. H. Buehler went out as Capt. of Co. F, and when made Col. on formation of the regiment, Wm. J. Martin was elected Capt., serving from Sept. 1861, to 1862.

Capt. Martin was a staunch Democrat his entire life and for many years was active in everything that involved the welfare of his party. He was an able assistant in those days when the voice of Henry J. Stahle was an important factor in his party. Capt. Martin was County Treasurer from 1869 to 1871 and afterwards served as chairman of the County Committee.

The funeral will be held this morning, Wednesday, at nine o'clock, the friends will meet at the house at 8 o'clock. Rev. Father Wm. Martin will celebrate the mass of requiem in St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church and will be assisted by Rev. Father T. J. Crotty of Centerville, Rev. Father H. Crist of Lancaster, Rev. Father M. Dermot of Waynesboro, Rev. Father Kohl of Littlestown, and Rev. Father Johnson of this place.

DAIRY FARM INSPECTIONS

BY HEALTH OFFICERS UNDER STATE BOARD OF HEALTH.

Dr. Dixon Gives Wholesome Instruction of Duty of Dairymen to Public in Care of Cattle and Milk.

Dr. Samuel G. Dixon, State Commissioner of Health, has taken up the subject of the inspection of all dairy farms for the preservation of the public health. He has communicated with Dr. J. R. Dickson, county medical inspector, and Harry Weaver, health officer of Gettysburg, Cumberland and Straban townships, and other health officers throughout the county, giving instructions in the matter of inspections.

The health officer is expected to secure complete information as owner or lessee of the farm and his address, all facts concerning the cleanliness of cows, the water supply for cattle, the stable, the cow yards, the milk houses, the manner of milking, the hauling of the milk and other matters.

Health Commissioner Dixon is convinced that much of the disease that is spread through polluted milk can be avoided by a close supervision over the conditions at the dairies and the cleanliness of cows, the water supply for the cattle, the condition of the stable, the cow yard and milkhouse and the habits and methods of those who handle the milk. He believes that with this additional care added to the efficient work that is being done by the state livestock sanitary board in looking after the health of cattle and by the dairy and food commissioners in keeping up the standard quality, the milk furnished by the people in Pennsylvania will be far more pure and safe.

Dr. Dixon in his instructions to the health officers directs that they distribute to the dairymen the following letter:

"My Dear Sir: Milk being one of the most valuable of foodstuffs, the following suggestions are offered that it may be more generally used than at present and to prevent disease that is produced by dirty milk:—

"The floors, walls and ceilings of the stable should be tight, walls and ceilings being kept free from cobwebs. There should be as few dust catching ledges and projections as possible.

"Do not allow musty or dirty litter or strong smelling material in the stable. Manure should not lie stored near the stable. It is well to sprinkle the floor with air-slaked lime or land plaster daily.

"Cans should not be taken into the stables to be refilled. Remove the milk of each cow at once from the stable to a clean room and strain immediately. Canton flannel or absorbent cotton makes a good strainer. The milk should be cooled as soon as strained. All milk houses should be screened from flies.

"Milk utensils should be made of metal, with all joints smoothly soldered, or should be made of stamped when possible, metal. Never allow utensils to become rusty or rough inside. Use milk utensils for nothing but handling, storing or delivering the milk.

"To clean dairy utensils use pure water only. First rinse utensils with cold water, then wash inside and out in hot water; then rinse again; sterilize with boiling water or steam; then keep inverted in a clean place or exposed to the sun where no dirt can be blown or dropped into them.

"The milker should wash his hands immediately before milking. The practice of moistening the hands with milk when milking is most vicious and uncleanly and should be avoided. He should wear a clean outer garment, which should be kept in a clean place when not in use. Tobacco should not be used when milking.

"The first few drops of milk from each teat should not be milked into the can as it will be apt to injure the milk both as to the keeping qualities and as to the healthfulness for food.

"If any part of the milk is bloody, stringy, or unnatural in appearance, or if by accident dirt gets into the milk, the whole mess should be rejected.

"Never mix warm milk with that which has been cooled, and do not allow it to freeze.

"Do not feed dry, dusty feed previous to or during milking time.

"Persons suffering from tuberculosis or skin diseases or those suffering from a contagious disease must not handle either the cows, the milk or milk utensils.

"It is needless to say that the shorter the time between the production of milk and the delivery, and between delivery and use, the better will be the quality of the milk, providing it is cooled before transported.

"The inspection is expected to disclose many unsanitary places and the full force of the department will be used to close them up or to compel the proprietors to make it all entirely sanitary and safe."

Sportsmen Organize. Recent violations of the game and fish laws in the section around McSherrystown and Hanover have prompted action for the vindication of such laws. State Fish Commissioner W. E. Meehan, went to McSherrystown, last week to effect an organization for such purpose. One evening last week a large number of persons of McSherrystown and Hanover gathered at St. Mary's hall. The object of the meeting was presented by Mr. Meehan and Chief Warden John W. Griswell, of Harrisburg, who explained the necessity of the rigid enforcement of the laws adopted by recent legislatures.

The meeting was called to order by Charles E. Miller and a temporary organization was effected by the election of Charles S. Shirk, of Hanover, as chairman, and F. A. Eline, of McSherrystown, as secretary. The speakers were then introduced, after which many men present spoke freely of the violations of the fish and game laws.

A committee was then appointed to prepare a preamble for a constitution to be presented at a future meeting. The following gentlemen compose the committee: C. E. Smith, C. E. Miller, Charles Reider, F. Y. Stambaugh, F. Eline, Charles Kehm and Peter F. Smith.

PENNSYLVANIA'S MEMORIAL

The Lincoln Roadway Demands Delay Until Its Fate Is Settled.

The Gettysburg Battlefield Memorial Association under the Act of 1907 are inviting designs for a monument to be erected by the State of Pennsylvania on the field of Gettysburg, in honor of her troops who fought there and for which the Legislature has appropriated $150,000.

The invitation stipulates that while designs will be received from any person, the award of the work will only be made to an architect of good standing, and the commission will pay $500 for the best design, $350 for the second best and $150 for the third best selected, the commission in every case to be the sole judge.

The "Monumental News" criticizes the invitation, saying, "The design for a monument of such importance calls for a decision as to its merits from men of known standing in architecture and sculpture, and the prizes should be sufficient in amount to induce high class competitors to cooperate. It is sincerely hoped for the sake of American art that there is no foundation for the doubts which assail us on perusing the circular referred to."

The situation has entirely changed since the commission met in Gettysburg months ago and Gettysburg people and every one familiar with the situation realize that Pennsylvania is now in a position to meet the demands there should be no decision on the part of the commission for a few months to come.

The bill for the proposed Lincoln road from Washington to Gettysburg will be introduced into Congress when it assembles in December. That bill will become a law on the centenary of Lincoln, Feb. 12, 1909, or perhaps fall ever to become a law. The roadway idea has been recommended by one who was specially commissioned to study the subject. It has been approved by the Lincoln Association, President Roosevelt and hundreds of papers all over the land.

This situation imperatively demands recognition of the Gettysburg Battlefield Memorial Association and that nothing decisive be done by them until the fate of the Lincoln roadway is known. If it becomes a law, in less than six months, as all indications point to, then the memorial of Pennsylvania should with the help of the greatest architects be appropriately placed with relation to the Gettysburg terminus. Such a situation might call for an amendment to the act of 1907, calling for an appropriation of a half million dollars and for a memorial structure that would be recognized for all time to come as superbly appropriate. Such an amendment could also provide for future maintenance and an adequate compensation to competing first class artists. As it is only a matter of months until the Lincoln roadway may come and as the Pennsylvania Legislature will then be in session, the way is open to the commission to wait and cover themselves with the glory of the eternally appropriate memorial. Any other step at the present time would be a fatal mistake.

Convention for Next Year.

When they prepared to start for home Miss Wolf and one of her friends got in the buggy and the third lady was holding horse at the bridge when the animal became unmanageable and started to run away. Miss Wolf propped her feet against the dash and pulled on lines with all her might, when the dash broke and she was thrown from the buggy. The other lady in buggy jumped and was only slightly injured. Miss Wolf's right hip was badly contused, but was able to be taken home the same evening.

"Oh, Mr. Moriarty, I'm poorly; the powder's kilt me entirely!"

"The powder?" cried Dr. Moriarty. "Why I didn't tell you to take the powder, I told you to place it in a paper tube, and put one end of it in the horse's mouth, and blow hard."

"Yes, sorr," said Pat. "I put the powder in the chube, and I put the end of it in the horse's mouth, with the other end in my own, but begorra! he blew first!"

BRYAN ACCEPTS

In Hearty Accord With Platform.

SHALL THE PEOPLE RULE

That Is the Overshadowing Question.

REPUBLICANS RESPONSIBLE.

All Present Abuses a Result of Their Acts, and They Are Im- potent to Correct Them.

Mr. Clayton and Gentlemen of the Notification Committee: I can not accept the nomination which you officially tender, without first acknowledging my deep indebtedness to the Democratic party for the extraordinary honor which it has conferred upon me. Having twice before been a candidate for the presidency, in campaigns which ended in defeat, a third nomination, the result of the free and voluntary act of the voters of the party, can only be explained by a substantial and undisputed growth in the principles and policies for which I, with a multitude of others, have contended. As these principles and policies have given me whatever political strength I possess, the action of the convention not only renews my faith in them, but strengthens my attachment to them.

A Platform is Binding.

I shall, in the near future, prepare a more formal reply to your notification, and, in that letter of acceptance, will deal with the platform in detail. It is sufficient, at this time, to assure you that I am in hearty accord with both the letter and the spirit of the platform. I endorse it in whole and in part, and shall, if elected, regard its declarations as binding upon me. And, I may add, a platform is binding as to what it omits as well as to what it contains. According to the democratic idea, the people think for themselves and select officials to carry out their wishes. The voters are the sovereigns; the officials are the servants, employed for a fixed time and at a stated salary to do what the sovereigns want done, and to do it in the way the sovereigns want it done. Platforms are entirely in harmony with this democratic idea. A platform announces the party's position on the questions which are at issue; and an official is not at liberty to use the authority vested in him to urge personal views which have not been submitted to the voters for their approval. If one is nominated upon a platform which is not satisfactory to him, he must, if candid, either decline the nomination, or, in accepting it, propose an amended platform in lieu of the one adopted by the convention. No such situation, however, confronts your candidate, for the platform upon which I was nominated not only contains nothing from which I dissent, but it specifically outlines all the remedial legislation which we can hope to secure during the next four years.

Republican Challenge Accepted.

The distinguished statesman who received the Republican nomination for president said, in his notification speech: "The strength of the Republican cause in the campaign at hand is the fact that we represent the policies essential to the reform of known abuses, to the continuance of liberty and true prosperity, and that we are determined, as our platform unequivocally declares, to maintain them and carry them out."

In the name of the Democratic party, I accept the challenge, and charge that the Republican party is responsible for all the abuses which now exist in the federal government, and that it is impotent to accomplish the reforms which are imperatively needed. Further, I can not concur in the statement that the Republican platform unequivocally declares for the reforms that are necessary; on the contrary, I affirm that it openly and notoriously disappoints the hopes and expectations of reformers, whether those reformers be Republicans or Democrats. So far did the Republican convention fall short of its duty that the Republican candidate felt it necessary to add to his platform in several important particulars, thus rebuking the leaders of the party, upon whose cooperation he must rely for the enactment of remedial legislation.

As I shall, in separate speeches, discuss the leading questions at issue, I shall at this time confine myself to the paramount question, and to the far-reaching purpose of our party, as that purpose is set forth in the platform.

Shall the People Rule?

Our platform declares that the over-

tractions from the beneficiaries of protection, as to make that party powerless to bring to the country any material relief from the present tariff burdens.

Why No Anti-trust Legislation?

A few years ago the Republican leaders in the house of representatives were covered by public opinion into the support of an anti-trust law which had the endorsement of the president, but the senate refused even to consider the measure, and since that time no effort has been made by the dominant party to secure remedial legislation upon this subject.

Why No Railroad Legislation?

For ten years the Interstate Commerce Commission has been asking for an enlargement of its powers, that it might prevent rebates and discriminations, but a Republican senate and a Republican house of representatives were unmoved by its entreaties. In 1900 the Republican national convention was urged to endorse the demand for railway legislation, but its platform was silent on the subject. Even in 1904 the convention gave no pledge to remedy these abuses. When the president finally asked for legislation he drew his inspiration from three Democratic national platforms and he received more cordial support from the Democrats than from the Republicans. The Republicans in the senate deliberately defeated several amendments offered by Senator La Follette and supported by the Democrats—amendments embodying legislation asked by the Interstate Commerce Commission. One of these amendments authorized the ascertainment of the value of railroads. This amendment was not only defeated by the senate, but it was overwhelmingly rejected by the recent Republican national convention, and the Republican candidate has sought to rescue his party from the disastrous results of this act by expressing himself, in a qualified way, in favor of ascertaining the value of the railroads.

Over-issue of Stocks and Bonds.

Mr. Taft complains of the over-issue of stocks and bonds of railroads, "for the unlawful enriching of directors and for the purpose of concentrating the control of the railroads under one management," and the complaint is well founded. But, with a president to point out the evil, and a Republican congress to correct it, we find nothing done for the protection of the public.

Mr. Taft Endorses the Indictment.

Mr. Taft says that these evils have crept in during the last ten years. He declares that, during this time, some "prominent and influential members of the community, spurred by financial success and in their hurry for greater wealth, became unmindful of the common rules of business honesty and fidelity, and of the limitations imposed by law upon their actions," and that "the revelations of the breaches of trusts, the disclosures as to rebates and discriminations by railroads, the accumulating evidence of the violations of the anti-trust laws, by a number of corporations, and the over-issue of stocks and bonds of interstate railroads for the unlawful enriching of directors and for the purpose of concentrating the control of the railroads under one management"—all these, he charges, "quickened the conscience of the people and brought on a moral awakening."

During all this time, I beg to remind you, Republican officials presided in the executive department, filled the cabinet, dominated the senate, controlled the house of representatives and occupied most of the federal judgeships. Four years ago the Republican platform boastfully declared that since 1860—with the exception of two years—the Republican party had been in control of part or of all the branches of the federal government; that for two years only was the Democratic party in a position to either enact or repeal a law. Having drawn the salaries; having enjoyed the honors; having secured the prestige, let the Republican party accept the responsibility!

Republican Party Responsible.

Why were these "known abuses" permitted to develop? Why have they not been corrected? If existing laws are sufficient, why have they not been enforced? All of the executive machinery of the federal government is in the hands of the Republican party. Are new laws necessary? Why have they not been enacted? With a Republican president to recommend, with a Republican senate and house to carry out his recommendations, why does a Republican candidate plead for further time in which to do what should have been done long ago? Can Mr. Taft promise to do more strenuous in the prosecution of wrongdoers than the present executive? Can he ask for a longer majority in the senate than the party now has? Does he need more Republicans in the house of representatives? Or will he work with more unified authority?

Why No Tariff Reform?

The president's close friends have been promising for several years that he would attack the inequities of the tariff. We have had intimation that Mr. Taft was resolute under the demands of the highly protected industries. And yet the influence of the manufacturers, who have for twenty-five years contributed to the Republican campaign fund, and who in return have framed the tariff schedules, has been sufficient to prevent tariff reform. As the present campaign approached, both the president and Mr. Taft declared in favor of tariff revision, but set the date of revision after the election. But the pressure brought to bear by the protected interests has been great enough to prevent any attempt at tariff reform before the election; and the reduction promised after the election is so hedged about with qualifying phrases, that no one can estimate with accuracy the sum total of tariff reform to be expected in case of Republican success. If the past can be taken as a guide, the Republican party will be so obligated by campaign contributions from the beneficiaries of protection, as to make that party powerless to bring to the country any material relief from the present tariff burdens.

Why No Anti-trust Legislation?

A few years ago the Republican leaders in the house of representatives were covered by public opinion into the support of an anti-trust law which had the endorsement of the president, but the senate refused even to consider the measure, and since that time no effort has been made by the dominant party to secure remedial legislation upon this subject.

Why No Railroad Legislation?

For ten years the Interstate Commerce Commission has been asking for an enlargement of its powers, that it might prevent rebates and discriminations, but a Republican senate and a Republican house of representatives were unmoved by its entreaties. In 1900 the Republican national convention was urged to endorse the demand for railway legislation, but its platform was silent on the subject. Even in 1904 the convention gave no pledge to remedy these abuses. When the president finally asked for legislation he drew his inspiration from three Democratic national platforms and he received more cordial support from the Democrats than from the Republicans. The Republicans in the senate deliberately defeated several amendments offered by Senator La Follette and supported by the Democrats—amendments embodying legislation asked by the Interstate Commerce Commission. One of these amendments authorized the ascertainment of the value of railroads. This amendment was not only defeated by the senate, but it was overwhelmingly rejected by the recent Republican national convention, and the Republican candidate has sought to rescue his party from the disastrous results of this act by expressing himself, in a qualified way, in favor of ascertaining the value of the railroads.

Over-issue of Stocks and Bonds.

Mr. Taft complains of the over-issue of stocks and bonds of railroads, "for the unlawful enriching of directors and for the purpose of concentrating the control of the railroads under one management," and the complaint is well founded. But, with a president to point out the evil, and a Republican congress to correct it, we find nothing done for the protection of the public.

Fasting in Wilderness Necessary.

So long as the Republican party remains in power, it is powerless to regenerate itself. It can not attack wrong-doing in high places without disgracing many of its prominent members, and it, therefore, uses opiates instead of the surgeon's knife. Its malefactors construe each Republican victory as an endorsement of their conduct and threaten the party with defeat if they are interfered with. Not until that party passes through a period of fasting in the wilderness, will the Republican leaders learn to study public questions from the standpoint of the masses. Just as with individuals, "the cares of this world and the deceitfulness of riches choke the truth," so in politics, when party leaders serve far away from home and are not in constant contact with the voters, continued party success blinds their eyes to the needs of the people and makes them deaf to the cry of distress.

Publicity as to Campaign Contributions.

An effort has been made to secure legislation requiring publicity as to campaign contributions and expenditures; but the Republican leaders, ever in the face of an indignant public, refused to consent to a law which would compel honesty in elections. When the matter was brought up in the recent Republican national convention, the plank was repudiated by a vote of 880 to 94. Here, too, Mr. Taft has been driven to apologize for his convention and to declare himself in favor of a publicity law; and yet, if you will read what he says upon this subject, you will find that his promise falls far short of the requirements of the situation.

He says: "If I am elected president, I shall urge upon congress, with every hope of success, that a law be passed requiring the filing, in a federal office, of a statement of the contributions received by committees and candidates in elections for members of congress, and in such other elections as are constitutionally within the control of congress."

I shall not embarrass him by asking him upon what he bases his hope of success; it is certainly not on any encouragement he has received from Republican leaders. It is sufficient to say that if his hopes were realized—if, in spite of the adverse action of his convention, he should succeed in securing the enactment of the very law which he favors, it would give but partial relief. He has read the Democratic platform; not only his language, but his

Is very careful about her churn. She scalds it thoroughly after using, and gives it a sun bath to sweeten it. She knows that if her churn is sour it will taint the butter that is made in it. The stomach is a churn. In the stomach and digestive and nutritive tracts are performed processes which are almost exactly like the churning of butter. Is it not apparent then that if this stomach-churn is foul it makes foul all which is put into it?

The evil of a foul stomach is not alone the bad taste in the mouth and the foul breath caused by it, but the corruption of the pure current of blood and the dissemination of disease throughout the body. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes the sour and foul stomach sweet. It does for the stomach what the washing and sun bath do for the churn—absolutely removes every taint or corrupting element. In this way it cures blotches, pimples, eruptions, scrofulous swellings, sores, or open eating ulcers and all humors or diseases arising from bad blood.

If you have bitter, nasty, foul taste in your mouth, coated tongue, foul breath, are weak and easily tired, feel depressed and despondent, have frequent headaches, dizzy attacks, gnawing or distress in stomach, constipated or irregular bowels, sour or bitter risings after eating and poor appetite, these symptoms, or any considerable number of them, indicate that you are suffering from biliousness, torpid or lazy liver with the usual accompanying indigestion, or dyspepsia and their attendant derangements.

The best agents known to medical science for the cure of the above symptoms and conditions, as attested by the writings of leading teachers and practitioners of all the several schools of medical practice, have been skillfully and harmoniously combined in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. That this is absolutely true will be readily proven to your satisfaction if you will but mail a postal card request to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for a free copy of his booklet of extracts from the standard medical authorities, giving the names of all the ingredients entering into his world-famed medicines and showing what the most eminent medical men of the age say of them.

Bryan's Acceptance—Con. from 2

erent alarm, indicates that he has read it carefully. He even had before him the action of the Democratic national committee in interpreting and applying that platform; and yet, he fails to say that he favors the publication of the contributions before the election. Of course, it satisfies a natural curiosity to find out how an election has been purchased, even when the knowledge comes too late to be of service, but why should the people be kept in darkness until the election is past? Why should the locking of the door be delayed until the horse is gone?

An Election a Public Affair.

An election is a public affair. The people, exercising the right to select their officials and to decide upon the policies to be pursued, proceed to their several polling places on election day and register their will. What excuse can be given for secrecy as to the influences at work? If a man, peculiarly interested in "concentrating the control of the railroads in one management," subscribes a large sum to aid in carrying the election, why should his part in the campaign be concealed until he has put the officials under obligation to him? If a trust magnate contributes $100,000 to elect political friends to office, with a view to preventing hostile legislation, why should that fact be concealed until his friends are securely seated in their official positions?

This is not a new question; it is a question which has been agitated—a question which the Republican leaders fully understand—a question which the Republican candidate has studied, and yet he refuses to declare himself in favor of the legislation absolutely necessary, namely, legislation requiring publication before the election.

Democratic Party Promises Publicity.

How can the people hope to rule, if they are not able to learn until after the election what the predatory interests are doing? The Democratic party meets the issue honestly and courageously. It says:

"We pledge the Democratic party to the enactment of a law prohibiting any corporation from contributing to a campaign fund, and any individual from contributing an amount above a reasonable maximum, and providing for the publication, before election, of all such contributions above a reasonable minimum."

The Democratic national committee immediately proceeded to interpret and apply this plank, announcing that no contributions would be received from corporations, that no individual would be allowed to contribute more than $10,000, and that all contributions above $100 would be made public before the election—those received before October 15 to be made public on or before that day, those received afterward to be made public on the day when received, and no such contributions to be accepted within three days of the election. The expenditures are to be published after election. Here is a plan which is complete and effective.

Popular Election of Senators.

Next to the corrupt use of money the present method of electing United States senators is most responsible for the obstruction of reforms. For one hundred years after the adoption of the constitution, the demand for the popular election of senators, while finding increased expression, did not become a dominant sentiment. A constitutional amendment had from time to time been suggested and the matter had been more or less discussed in a few of the states, but the movement had not reached a point where it manifested itself through congressional action. In the Fifty-second congress, however, a resolution was reported from a house committee proposing the necessary constitutional amendment, and this resolution passed the house of representatives by a vote which was practically unanimous. In the Fifty-third congress a similar resolution was reported to, and adopted by the house of representatives. Both the Fifty-second and Fifty-third congresses were Democratic. The Republicans gained control of the house as a result of the election of 1894 and in the Fifty-fourth congress the proposition died in committee. As time went on, however, the sentiment grew among the people, until it forced a Republican congress to follow the example set by the Democrats, and then another and another Republican congress acted favorably. State after state has endorsed this reform, until nearly two-thirds of the states have adopted it. The Democratic party is pledged to such a revision of the rules as will bring the popular branch of the federal government into harmony with the people. Those who framed our constitution labored and founded our government. "Shall the people rule?" They can not do so unless they can control the house of representatives, and through their representatives in the house, give expression to their purposes and their desires. The Republican party is committed to the methods now in vogue in the house of representatives: to the rule of the majority, to the rule of the few, to the rule of the moneyed interests. daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Haverstock of near Heidersburg and was married to Mr. Staub about five years ago, who survives with a three year old son. Interment was made in the Paradise Catholic Church cemetery, after mass of requiem in the Sacred Heart Paradise Church.

—Augustus Lorenz of Arendtsville, who has not enjoyed good health during the last few months, died from a stroke of paralysis last Sunday afternoon. He was present at the game of baseball in Arendtsville Saturday afternoon, and complaining of numbness of one leg he made an attempt to arise, when he fell to the ground in a collapse. He was taken to his home and medical aid was immediately summoned but of no avail. He lingered until Sunday evening at 6:30 o'clock, when he expired. He was in his 58th year. For the past twelve years he has been proprietor of the Mountain House at Arendtsville and had previously managed other hotels in the county. Mr. Lorenz conducted at the Mountain House one of the best hotels in the county, kept in good order, discouraging those features that would reflect on good management. He was looked upon as one of the best and most enterprising citizens of Arendtsville. The funeral was held yesterday (Tuesday), the funeral sermon being delivered by Rev. T. C. Hesson in the Reformed Church of Arendtsville and the body was laid to rest in the Greenmount cemetery at Arendtsville. He leaves a wife, one son and two daughters, Charles Lorenz and Mrs. Wm. Sheely of Denderville, and Mrs. Bruce C. Knouse of Arendtsville. A sister and two brothers survive, Mrs. William Spangler of Cranberry, Harry Lorenz of Harrisburg and Edward Lorenz of York Springs.

—MERRIE L. HARTLAND, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland Hartland of Donnewville, died on Aug. 6 from cholera infantum aged 5 months and 20 days, interment at St. Luke's graveyard.

—GRANT G. GLADHILL, infant child of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Gladhill of Iron Springs, died on Aug. 6 of cholera infantum aged 4 months. Interment in the Fairfield Catholic cemetery.

—EVA E. SHEPARD, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. Shepard, died at her home on West High street on Saturday morning. The funeral was held on Sunday afternoon, interment made in the Catholic cemetery.

It is with sadness that we chronicle the death of Ethel R., the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Truman Luckenbaugh, of Cumberland township, who departed this life Aug. 11, aged 12 years, 8 months and 18 days. Her death came as a sudden shock to the entire community as no one knew of her serious illness until the announcement of death came. She had the whooping cough about three weeks and took with it summer grip, which turned suddenly to neuralgia of the heart, causing almost instant death.

Ethel was a young lady of a very kind and affectionate disposition, making friends with all whom she met and having many associates who deeply mourn the loss of their departed little friend. She was always very prompt and attentive to her work in the public schools, and as a worker in the Sunday school she was unsurpassed by any one of her age. She was ever ready and willing to do anything she was able to do, and although young in years she performed a useful work in the Sunday school by never refusing but always taking any part she could do for which surely God will reward her.

We are unable to realize why God in His All Wise Providence should visit our community and take from our midst one blooming in youth and having such bright prospects for a life of usefulness in His kingdom here below, but we must console ourselves with the thought that whatever Ethel does is best, and feeling that our loss is her eternal gain.

The funeral services were held from her late home on Thursday, Rev. P. E. T. Stocksteger officiating, with interment in the Mt. Joy cemetery. The pall-bearers were four of her classmates in the Sunday school: Misses May Rhodes, Luella Kelley, Mary Fleck and Edith Jacobs. The floral tributes were pretty and extensive. The members of the Sunday school attended in a body and under directions of Supt. John W. Benner, formed double lines for the funeral to march through as they entered the church and again in the march to the cemetery, showing great respect to the memory of their departed little friend who was so highly esteemed in the Sunday school.

Called thee to thy home above,
Thou hast come to join thy loved ones,
Where all is joy and peace and love.

Fare thee well our darling Ethel,
Till the time we meet once more,
Thou art gone but not forgotten,
Thou shalt only come before.

How we miss thee ever miss thee,
But our tears are all in vain,
Thou art gone, but ever shall be
Free from sorrow, toil or pain.

Weep not for me sisters, brothers,
Weep not for me parents dear,
Weep not for me friends or others,
But when God calls for me here,
—By her Parents.

Resolved, That the seat occupied by her in our school be draped in mourning, as a sacred to her memory, for thirty days from the time of her death.

Resolutions.

At a regular stated meeting of W. C. 414, P. O. S. of A., held on Thursday evening, August 13, 1908, in the Camp room at Gettysburg, Pa., the following paper relative to the death of J. Emory Rummel was prepared and adopted:

The painful reality has come and our beloved co-worker, Bro. J. Emory Rummel, will no more greet us in the councils of our Camp. His removal from us by death on last Thursday, August 6th, 1908, at 11:30, A. M., is to all of us a solemn admonition that we too are passing away. It becomes us, therefore, to earnestly and faithfully maintain the principles of our Association, for he served them with a manly intensity. And in the various positions he occupied he always exhibited the spirit of an abiding faith in the ultimate triumph of the cardinal teachings of our organization, having creditably filled not only the highest positions which the local camp could bestow, but also the offices of District President and Past District President.

Thus we may honor his memory, cherish his virtues, and imitate his devotion to the loftiest patriotism. To his immediate family in this period of their deepest sorrow, we give the assurance of a true sympathy, such as lives in the hearts of those who feel they have been bereft of a true brother, and with them we will entertain the hope that we shall meet him again where sorrows never come and separations are unknown.

Summer Hygiene.

Summer is the season of health and recuperation for those who properly regulate their mode of living. For those who do not it is a season of discomfort.

Pure, healthful, light food that will not stimulate heat production while it properly nourishes and strengthens the body and brain is the great essential.

It is conceded that best of all foods for summer diet are the quickly made flour-foods hot biscuit, rolls, puddings, cakes, muffins, etc., such as are made with baking powder. A most excellent household bread is also made with baking powder, instead of yeast. These properly made, are light, sweet, and fine flavored, easily digested, nutritious and wholesome. Yeast bread should be avoided whenever possible in summer, as the yeast germ is almost certain in hot weather to ferment in the stomach and cause trouble. The Royal Baking Powder foods are unfermented and may be eaten in their most delicious state, viz., fresh and hot without fear of unpleasant results. Alum baking powders should be avoided at all times. They make the food less digestible. When the system is relaxed by summer heat their danger is heightened.

The flour-foods made from Royal Baking Powder are the acme of perfection for summer diet. No decomposition takes place in their dough, the nutritive qualities of the flour are preserved and digestion is aided, which is not the case with sour-yeast bread or cakes.

BIG MONEY IN A TREE CROP

COULD BE MADE THE MOST VALUABLE CROP ON FARM.

Experience of a Western Farmer Known Here with the Catalpa Tree.

In Adams County, Pa., a farmer has written the following letter to the National Stockman and Farmer:

Editor National Stockman and Farmer:—I have a number of people in Adams County, Pa., who are writing me letters asking me to tell them how to make a big money crop on their farms. I have a number of people in Adams County, Pa., who are writing me letters asking me to tell them how to make a big money crop on their farms.

The trees in this field were set in April, 1904, and the largest of them are now thirteen feet high and three and one-half inches thick at the ground. Two years more growth, making them five years old, and I can begin cutting very fair-sized fence posts. At eight years of age these trees will, nearly all of them, be large enough to split the butt cut into two fence posts and there will be two good posts in length above the first cut.

I wish the farmers who have no timber and are buying their fence posts would take a pencil and paper and figure on this post-growing proposition. It looks so good to me that I planted 125 acres of my land to catalpa trees in the spring of 1907 and now have 150 acres of these trees growing. One hundred and fifty thousand trees make quite a forest, and I do not know of anything that will grow into such quick and easy money, even counting that you make fence posts out of all the material.

As a matter of fact this wood is so valuable for all kinds of handles, such as forks, hoes, rakes, etc., that I shall certainly utilize all the best part of my trees for such use, which is much more valuable than fence post material.

Catalpa wood has proved to be stiffer and stronger than white ash, tougher than hickory, and as light as pine—a combination of good qualities no other wood possesses. It is also the equal of any known wood for steaming and bending and also takes a most beautiful finish for furniture or interior house work, having a handsome natural grain that compares most favorably with white oak.

Another very valuable use for this wood is found in its great durability in the ground and the further fact that the tree will grow one inch per year in thickness, if in a suitable location, and the tree is surely found that will prove the salvation of our rapidly failing timber supply.

The tests of catalpa wood for the purposes mentioned I have made myself from lumber secured in the Wabash Valley. The Catalpa Speciosa trees formerly grew quite abundantly along the Wabash River, but the farmers of the region where these trees grew early discovered their many useful qualities and the trees are now practically all gone. Last year I secured several logs of catalpa trees and had them sawed into lumber; one of these logs measured 42 inches in thickness.

There are two kinds of catalpa trees, the Catalpa Speciosa, and the Catalpa Bignonioides; the former grows tall and straight, making a fine tree for commercial use, while the latter kind is a crooked-growing, scrubby tree of no use for anything longer than a fence post.

One-year-old catalpa trees for setting can be bought at a very reasonable price from almost any nursery, but unfortunately the trees nearly always prove to be of the crooked, worthless kind. The reason for this is not hard to find, as the tall growing kind of catalpa is scarce and is a shy bearer of seed, while the "scrub" kind of catalpa trees are abundant and seed very freely every year. The seed of the two kinds of catalpa trees are very much alike, in fact it takes an expert to tell them apart and the result is that the average nurseryman buys seed for the true "Speciosa," grows the trees and sells them guaranteed to be the true Speciosa and after three or four years the farmer who has bought the trees in expectation of getting the tall-growing kind finds that he was swindled. One of my neighbors, Mr. Ware, set out one thousand catalpa trees four years ago and they have all proved to be the scrub kind. These trees were purchased from a reliable nursery under an absolute guaranty as to purity. Probably the nurseryman can be made to refund the purchase price of the trees or give the man another thousand trees, but the expense of collecting such accounts will always deter the average farmer from getting his just claim.

The two kinds of catalpa trees look exactly alike while growing in nursery, therefore the buyer has to trust the nurseryman's honesty entirely. My opinion is that it is as often ignorance on the nurseryman's part as downright dishonesty. The most of nurserymen buy their seed and of course buy it for pure Speciosa, but as they do not know the difference in the seed they are generally imposed upon; the temptation to sell Bignonioides seed for Speciosa being great, as it is only about one-tenth as expensive to secure.

This matter of securing trees of the right variety is a very serious one to the average farmer, as the amount of the purchase does not warrant the expense of personal investigation, even if he has the knowledge to be certain of the trees. I am afraid the blab-tongued tree-agent's guaranty and purity will be the only safeguard the average tree planter will get until the laws are made more stringent as regards selling trees not true to name. Selling to farmers trees of worthless varieties is one of the meanest swindles in the world, as the time before detection is possible is so long it gives the agent and firm he represents every chance to shirk responsibility.

I have not mentioned the value of a grove of trees as a wind-break for the farm buildings and doubt if any of us fully realize the usefulness and money value of such a protection.

With more groves of trees will come more birds, the farmers' best friends and insects' worst foes.

Plant trees for shade and shelter, plant trees for the money they will bring you, my farmer friends, and you will find a never-ending satisfaction in watching them grow into beauty and profit as well.

Question of Method

"Dear me," exclaimed Mrs. Bovee, "I sometimes think that I have not taken the right course with my husband."

"I'm sure every one says he is devoted," expostulated her caller.

"Oh, devoted! Yes, But, my dear, are all men so hard to please in every little detail of the house and the family? I can tell you they are not. Look at Mrs. Sedgwick's husband."

"Mrs. Sedgwick is so sweet," murmured the caller.

"Sweet!" burst out Mrs. Bovee, with a violence suggestive of a snort. "Of course it suited her to be sweet. She has nothing else under the blue canopy of heaven to be but sweet! That woman to my knowledge does not work three hours a day. She has a husband who is simply wickedly indulgent."

"Oh," murmured the caller deprecatingly. "I like to see him with her; he is always so tender and considerate."

"Mary Belle Sedgwick," pursued her hostess, relentlessly, "is no more in need of rest and attention than I am or than any other perfectly healthy woman is. She simply found out very early in life that it suited her to be languid and helpless and frail and she has played up to that role ever since. She is far from being artless, with all her girlish simplicity—girlish at 37!"

"She does seem younger than that," agreed the caller.

"Well, are you surprised? She has never taken a particle of responsibility or worry or any of the cares that age women who are not everlastingly thinking about themselves. I don't say she is selfish. She really does not seem to be; though, of course, that is what it amounts to," finished Mrs. Bovee, completing the circle.

"But can you imagine her any different?" asked the caller. "I have never seen her anything but graceful and leisurely and charming. I don't believe she would be so lovable any other way."

"Nobody says she would!" retorted her hostess. "That is just what I started out by remarking. And that is why I say I think I ought to have been different from the very start with Henry."

"If Mrs. Sedgwick can keep her husband a perfect slave to her every whim by the simple expedient of never doing a useful thing; never serving a hot dinner when a cold lunch is more convenient for her; never sparing him any of the worries of marketing and keeping the household accounts; never knowing for the life of her what he needs in the way of wardrobe or what he can afford for her pleasures; if Mrs. Sedgwick can do all these things, I repeat, and still get along beautifully, I cannot see why we don't all try it!"

"I for one get very tired of keeping every single thing about the house up to the last notch all the time, yet Henry is used to it and he makes me feel like a criminal when I slight anything. I would no more think of letting the house go for a club meeting or of picking up my trunks and going on a pleasure trip whenever the spirit moved me than I would think of slapping Henry's face! And he would be quite as surprised at one as the other."

"I think it depends a good deal upon the man," suggested the caller. "It never would work with my husband, I know."

"That is just where you are mistaken; it depends altogether upon the woman. I've seen every sort of man, serious and dignified, and frivolous and bored, fall into line and fetch and carry for Mary Belle Sedgwick, and I can tell you that she is just as effective with one kind as another. She has what you might call a universal method."

Both women were silent for a moment. The caller seemed unable to think of a counter-argument for her hostess' heretical views. Finally, however, she found one and when she spoke it was with unexpected decision.

"Well," she announced, "the way I look at it is this: A family has just so much to do and if the wife shirks her duty the husband simply has a double load to carry. I wouldn't want to add to my husband's worries if I could. And, when you stop to think, Mrs. Bovee, haven't you noticed that Mr. Sedgwick, after all, has a rather tired look?"—Chicago Daily News.

Like Finding Money.

L. M. Buehler, the popular druggist is making an offer that is just like finding money for he is selling a regular 50 cent bottle of Dr. Howard's celebrated specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia at half-price. In addition to this large discount he agrees to return the money to any purchaser who the specific does not cure.

It is quite unusual to be able to buy fifty cent pieces for a quarter, but that is what this offer really means, for it is only recently, through the solicitation of Druggist L. M. Buehler that this medicine could be bought for less than fifty cents. He urged the proprietors to allow him to sell it at this reduced price for a little while, agreeing to sell a certain amount. The result has justified his good judgment for the sale has been something remarkable.

Anyone who suffers with headache, dyspepsia, dizziness, sour stomach, specks before the eyes, or any liver trouble, should take advantage of this opportunity, for Dr. Howard's specific will cure all these troubles. But if by any chance it should not, L. M. Buehler will return your money.

IN THE SHADOW OF JACK'S MT.

JACK'S MOUNTAIN, Aug. 17.—Wm. and Gilbert Ernest and Walter Albert from Hagerstown, came to this place on last Tuesday evening in an automobile and on Wednesday morning in company with Baue Snyder, went to York Springs to play baseball with the Fairfield club against the York Springs club.

Mrs. Baue Snyder and daughter Gladys, who spent the last week or more at Bendersville with her parents, returned to this place last Wednesday.

Chas. Singley spent a few days with his mother, Mrs. Samuel Singley, near Virginia Mills last week.

Walter Getty, from Gettysburg, gave an interesting lecture at Fountain Dale, in the M. E. church on last Tuesday evening. His subject was on Sunday School work.

Jacob Smith has purchased from J.

T. Barton, the house and lot at Fountain Dale, known as the Jerry Tracey property. Mr. Smith has made some improvements by putting a new roof on the house.

The Reformed Sunday school held a very sociable picnic in the grove at St. Jacob's church near Fountain Dale on last Saturday. The music for the occasion was rendered by the Emmitsburg Band. There was also a festival in the evening. Quite a number of people were present. Mrs. Wm. Hoffman and Mrs. Eph. Sanders from Iron Springs attended the picnic.

Mrs. Lucy Keiper, from Lancaster, is spending some time with her sister, Mrs. Nettie Martin, at Fountain Dale. The Hamiltonian township schools will open on Monday, the 21st of Aug.

PLAYING WITH MATCHES—FIRE

DAVE DUNN, Aug. 17.—The small barn of Mr. Quickel located about a mile from this place was burnt to the ground last Thursday. The property is occupied by Jacob Link. They had visitors on that day, and it is thought some of the children were in the barn playing with matches, which resulted in the fire.

The Bachelors' Camping Club on Spring Grove have been camping in Grier's woods and ten of the number will leave this week for their homes. Aaron Sechrist and Charles Zeigler have a gasoline boat on the dam and charge 5 cts. a round trip from this place to camp, a distance of one mile. A good many people took the ride on Sunday.

H. W. King is not improving as rapidly as hoped, his convalescence being accompanied with weak spells which alarm his friends.

TO PALE, THIN PEOPLE.

Druggist L. M. Buehler Offers to Pay for Samose if it Does Not Make Thin Folks Fat.

Pale, thin people are simply suffering from want of nourishment. They may eat enough, but this food is not properly digested, and does them no good.

Samose, the remarkable flesh-forming food should be used by all who are pale, weak and thin. It mingles with the food and aids assimilation, so that when taken for a short time, Nature will soon assert her normal powers, and the food that is eaten will give strength and good flesh.

Weigh yourself before you commence the use of Samose, and you will notice a steady gain. Samose is not a cod liver oil or similar nauseating concoction, but a scientific flesh-forming food that restores the thin and scrawny to their proper weight, and fills the weak and debilitated with vigor and vitality.

The woman who longs for rosy cheeks and the plumpness of beauty should use Samose. The man who wants to be strong and well and gain health and good flesh, will find his desires accomplished by Samose.

Such remarkable results have followed the use of Samose that Druggist L. M. Buehler is willing to pay for the treatment if it does not give the desired results. He makes this offer generally and wants all who are thin, weak or out of health to get a box of Samose from him on these terms.
